

Energy, Natural Resources & the Environment (ENRE) Section of INFORMS Membership Application

The ENRE Section sponsors and supports a wide range of activities related to its interest areas, ranging from a newsletter, sponsoring focused sessions at the national INFORMS meeting, holding its own conferences and publishing their proceedings, as well as this home page. ENRE also serves as a focal point for networking for researchers and practitioners working on issues and sub-issues in energy, natural resources, and/or the environment. ENRE has two strong and active groups: Forestry and Energy. In the past, the Energy group has sponsored its own conferences and proceedings. One of our major goals is to expand interest and participation to others with environmental interests outside these two groups. ENRE's goals are to:

- promote the development and application of operations research/management science methods, techniques, and tools to the solution of problems relating to energy, natural resources and/or the environment;
- encourage the exchange of information among practitioners and users in energy, natural resources, and environmental applications areas;
- promote the maintenance of high professional standards in the application of operations research/management science to problem areas in energy, natural resources and/or the environment.

If you are not an INFORMS member and wish to join or renew your ENRE membership, you have several options:
